Community transport scheme shuts due to loss of funds

DIAL-A-RIDE SERVICE CUT

A BANBURY community transport service has closed, leaving about 100 OAPs and disabled users stuck by buses.

Banburyshire Community Transport Association (BCTA) shut on Friday, after two decades serving north Oxfordshire residents.

Bosses said the charity could not afford to continue after failing to win a key council contract to provide dial-a-ride services.

The charity collapsed with the loss of more than 15 jobs.

Until April, BCTA got £187,500 from Cherwell District Council (CDC) and £26,364-a-year from Oxfordshire County Council to run dial-a-ride services.

By Oliver Evans

The districtwide service ran five to seven buses five days a week for people to phone for trips like shopping and appointments.

But the county council took over the running of the service in April, awarding its own bus team the contract.

Cherwell then cut its contribution to dial-a-ride to £30,000, so the district now gets one bus for two days and two buses for three.

Bosses at BCTA continued to provide private trips but have now said these do not bring

InBRIEFThreatened with fake gun

■ BANBURY: A 63-year-old man has denied threatening his bank manager with a replica gun.

Christopher Wardell is alleged to have brandished a pistol in front of account manager Leanne Dalby at Nationwide in Banbury on February 1.

He appeared at Oxford Crown Court on June 19 and denied possessing an imitation firearm with intent to cause a fear of violence.

Wardell, of Main Street, Burdop, was bailed to stand trial in the fortnight beginning August 20.

Wind turbine bid refused

■ BANBURY: Plans to put up wind-testing equipment, which could lead to eight turbines being built north of Hanwell, have been rejected on appeal.

Cherwell District Council threw out the Regenco plan for a temporary wind monitoring mast at Bury Court Farm last year, and this has been upheld at an appeal at the Planning Inspectorate.

The inspectorate said the 60-metre mast would cause "slight harm" to the appearance of the landscape and could pose a risk to aircraft.

in enough cash to keep it afloat.

Among those to be hit is a weekly bingo club service to Yule Court Common Room, Boxhedge Square, Banbury, for £4 per person.

Organiser Sheila Speakman, 80, said: "It is disgraceful.

"We are in limbo. I am calling all my members to say this Wednesday's bingo is cancelled.

"I will have to find alternative arrangements. What the alternative is I don't know."

The OAP – who has started a petition calling for more cash for Dial-a-Ride – said: "They seem to find money for other things.

"They are not looking after their senior citizens who have worked all their lives and haven't asked for handouts."

Charles Nixon-Eckersall, chairman of the Beaumont Business Centre-based BCTA, said Dial-a-Ride was its "core business".

He said: "My board, over the last six months, have looked at this and the amount of money required would not have been raised by our contract work. It is a huge loss."

It would have to surrender charity status and associated financial perks to carry on, he said.

But Kevin Powell, BCTA co-ordinator, said: "I am gutted that, after 19 years with the charity, the board feels they have to close it when there is enough finances to keep it going for six to eight months."

He said: "The disabled and elderly are going to suffer because of their actions."

County council deputy leader Rodney Rose was sorry to hear of the closure.

But the Conservative said: "In the world we are living in, we can't go giving free transport to everybody who feels they have a right to it."

Man wanted over theft of fuel

THIS man is suspected of driving off without paying for petrol.

Police released CCTV images in an attempt to trace the man who drove off from Sainsbury's in Oxford

Appeal over 65-home plan is rejected again

CONTROVERSIAL plans for 65 homes in Adderbury have been thrown out, following an appeal by a developer.

Cherwell District Council rejected the plan for a field off Milton Road last year.

It warned of a lack of services and said the homes would "cause harm to the character and appearance of the countryside".

Berkeley Homes appealed to the independent Planning Inspectorate but has now lost the case.

The inspectorate said the council's inability to meet Government housing targets "weighs strongly" for allowing the homes.

It also applauded Berkeley's plan to make 40 per cent of the homes affordable to meet housing shortages.

Despite a lack of services, such as a doctors and shops, the homes would be close to Banbury by bus, it said.

Proposals to send children to Bloxham Primary School if Adderbury's Christopher Rawlins Primary is full are not unusual, it added.

But it said the site is not in the council's plans for where major housing developments should go and it is "not obvious" how 65 homes could go on the field along with drainage and a planned football field.

More than 200 villagers opposed the plan when it was considered by the council, with Adderbury Parish Council branding it "excessive".

Old Town Party, Armed Forces Day plus fete

Three reasons to take trip to town

RESIDENTS can enjoy a triple celebration on Saturday with a line-up of events in Banbury town centre.

Civic leaders will mark Armed Forces Day with a parade from servicemen and women.

And Old Town shops have organised a feast of entertainment, while St Mary's Church will host its fete.

The Armed Forces parade will leave Market Place at 11.30am and go up Parsons Street, into Horsefair, around Banbury Cross and down the High Street, where mayor Tony Illott will take the salute.

The parade will be dismissed at Broad Street and displays and stands will be by the Town Hall in Bridge Street from 9.30am-3.30pm.

Servicemen who want to take part in the parade should report to Staff Sgt Mark Taylor by 11.15am.

Parsons Street, Church Lane and White Lion Walk will be alive with music, colour and laughter for this year's Old Town Party.

The 11.30am-3.30pm event, co-sponsored by the Banbury Cake, will feature music, comedy, magic, dance, art and food around the town's historic old quarter.

Acts will include illusionist Gracie Spoon, balloon artist Funnyballoons, Big John Bull the stilt walker and comedy act the Van Dunk Brothers.

Other attractions will include storytelling at the East Street Centre, Thai dancing at Siam House, brass-rubbing at Banbury Museum and art classes at The Old Artery.

Among those set to entertain crowds will be young dancers from The Mill Arts Centre. The centre's Suzette Watson said: "We are keen to get out into the community. It is great for the members."

Organiser and herbalist Rhiannon Evans, of The Parsons Street Clinic, said the event is vital to showcase the area's businesses.

The St Mary's Church Fete, in Horsefair, runs from 11.30am-3.30pm. Visitors can enjoy music from Radio Horton, Zumba dances, a barbecue, and a host of stalls.

Approval of warehouse plan 'will create 1,000 jobs'

A NEW warehouse development could bring 1,000 jobs to Banbury.

Plans for warehouses by the M40 will go ahead despite a last-minute decision to protect nearby war relics, a planning consultant has said.

The Government last week agreed to give protected scheduled monument status to the remains of a former First World War munition filling station, following a request from Banbury Civic Society.

The remains are to the east of the motorway but not the west, where the warehouses are planned.

Cherwell District Council approved the outline scheme on June 21, but this is subject to final consultation with English Heritage.

Peter Frampton, the planning consultant for the proposal, said he expected the council to approve it as it would have little impact on the relics on the eastern side.

Councillors were told the scheme would create 1,000 jobs and it is hoped it would be open by 2014.

He said: "I am very pleased. We do have serious interest in the site.

"It is a great site. It will be great for Banbury."

Civic Society chairman Rob Kinchin-Smith said: "Some of it is scheduled, that is the main thing.

"This is an important historic feature and the significance of it has been recognised as we approach the centenary of the First World War."

The society had raised concerns about the scale of the plan, but Mr Kinchin-Smith said he was pleased the height of the buildings had been cut from 19 metres to 16 metres.

He said: "I am significantly happier. Hopefully this site will provide beneficial employment."

Further permission on the final details of the plan will be needed from the district council.

Photographer returns to unveil building College opens £3m arts unit

By Oliver Evans

RENOWNED photographer Michael Kenna returned to his old art school to open a £3.4m Creative Arts Centre.

He said he never forgot his training at Banbury School of Arts, now Oxford & Cherwell Valley College.

He spoke as he opened the college's new centre, home to 400 youngsters aged 14 and over.

He told students: "Despite all this wonderfully impressive new, freshly painted, clean architecture, we have here, I'm not get side-tracked about what an art school is.

"An art school is a functioning power station of live and constantly evolving combustible creativity."

Mr Kenna – famed for his black and white landscapes – was at the school from 197-73, where he achieved a distinction in a diploma in art and design.

The San Francisco resident said: "The school did exactly what it was supposed to do. It instructed, encouraged, challenged, nurtured, quarrelled, inflamed and wrestled with me."

He also launched a £500 annual prize for photography students.

The building has been formed from a former art block and has been given an open, modern, airy design, said creative arts curriculum manager Jackie Whitehouse.

She said: "It is very much about

light, about reclaiming our carbon footprint and flexible learning.

"We don't have classrooms as such, we have very open spaces for students to use."

Ms Whitehouse added: "It is a community, they don't want to leave the building, they absolutely love it.

"We have lots of students say 'can't we stay and help?' It has really changed the face of what we do."

Students' work went on display last week to showcase the disciplines taught by the school, including photography, graphics, textiles, fashion, fine art, illustration and ceramics.

College principal and chief executive Sally Dicketts said: "The summer shows are always spectacular and demonstrate the rich creativity within each of our students."

The development is part of long-term college plans to move facilities from the north to the south side of Broughton Road.

Its next project – also part-funded by the Skills Funding Agency – will feature a television studio for media students.

50 firefighters at the scene due to chemical fears 15 staff evacuated after factory blaze

FIFTEEN staff had to be evacuated after a blaze involving chemicals at a Banbury engineering firm.

The fire started last Wednesday night at about 10pm, at AAC Cyroma Manufacturing, on the Beaumont Road Industrial Estate.

At its peak, 50 firefighters from Banbury, Hook Norton, Deddington, Oxford, Woodstock, Kidlington, Bicester and Eynsham fought the blaze.

Because of chemicals inside the factory – which makes plastic moulds – fire fighters also fought the blaze from the roof.

The building's sprinkler system had activated and prevented the fire from spreading.

Fifteen employees working on an evening shift were evacuated.

Once the fire was out, crews wearing protective chemical clothing entered the premises to establish the extent of the fire and materials involved.

Group Manager Pete Graham said when the first crews arrived at the factory they were met with a "developing fire and significant smoke within the premises".

He said: "The pre-planning carried out by the site's management, and the fire protection measures and procedures in place, ensured the safety of their staff as well as assisting our firefighters in tackling this serious incident.

"Having our initial crews on scene within minutes, along with the site's team leaders who were able to give us comprehensive information and plans, was invaluable.

"The sprinkler system made a significant difference and prevented the fire developing significantly and enabled us to concentrate on dealing with the potential chemical issues."

Although the fire was put out within a couple of hours, crews and management from the firm remained at the site overnight. The Fire Service believes the cause of the blaze was accidental.

There was no structural damage to the building, which includes office and manufacturing areas, and Mr Graham said there was mainly water damage inside from the sprinkler system.

Staff were back at work the next day.

The firm declined to comment.

Farnborough Garden Centre – Harefurlong Nurseries

The Garden centre at Farnborough has been serving retail customers for well over 30 years and the onsite horticultural nursery has existed for much longer than this as both a nursery and a market garden.

The centre has developed gradually over the period of its existence as a result of changes in the gardening market and they look forward to more developments in the future.

The centre has large external, internal and covered display areas with the emphasis on plants and garden related requisites. A policy has been developed of growing and stocking not only more popular shrubs, trees and conifers but also those of a less common, or more unusual nature – many of which are not readily available in other centres. Customers with special plant requirements can also be offered advice and where possible, every effort will be made to locate plants not kept in stock.

With the change of gardening trends the garden centre at Farnborough has established and extensive range of pots and containers. These are available in terracotta, glazed earthenware, fibreclay, stoneware and timber. The range changes constantly and always includes special offers and specialist items.

Stoneware ornaments, birdbaths, sundials and figurines are also available in a number of styles and stoneware colours.

As well as trees and shrubs the plant areas stock a wide range of herbaceous perennials, rockery plants and alpines, together with aquatic plants and seasonal sundries.

The “on-site” nursery grows a full range of annual bedding and basket plants. Vegetable plants and herbs are on sale during spring and summer periods.

Customers own tubs and baskets are also planted to order in the spring and autumn. It must be said here, however, that there is a limit to the number that can be accommodated and once this limit is reached, further orders have been refused.

A new addition to the garden centre is their specialist supplier “Treasured Teddies” where an extensive range of the Teddy bear is on sale. The bears range from limited edition collector items, right through to “everyday huggable’s” with many manufacturers being represented.

With the onset of the new gardening season, why not pay the garden centre a visit to check out the range of items available and experience the friendly and helpful atmosphere that makes shopping easy.

Barbara's visit will be naughty but Nice...

DURING the mid 1980s, Mr Nice – AKA Howard Marx – had 43 aliases, 89 phone lines and owned 25 companies throughout the world. All were money laundering vehicles serving his core activity – dope dealing.

Mrs Nice, on the other hand, is a housewife and mother. Her maiden name was Garibaldi. She has a house phone that only rings when somebody wants to sell her solar panels for her roof. She has been the dealer in Snap and Happy Families and has given out the odd Valium to Mothers of the Bride at weddings and to friends and acquaintances.

All these and more are why Barbara Nice (real name Janice Connolly) attracted the attention of Peter Kay who saw her as a new act in Manchester and asked her to play Holy Mary in Phoenix Nights.

She described it as a 'dream story'. She was in the right place at the right time – but admits that she also had the star quality!

Barbara Nice is an 'ordinary housewife', mother of five, keen Take a Break reader and occasional stage diver. A vision in leopard skin, she likes to wear clothes from the charity shop and particularly loves garments in fetching animal prints.

By Liz Nicholls

Barbara is your average Stockport housewife who has given up the domestic bliss of Tupperware and Poundstretcher shops for the unpredictability of the comedy world.

And she arrives at Banbury tomorrow in a season that is garnering the Mill Arts Centre a great reputation as a comedy venue.

Barbara says: "No audience is too rowdy for me to handle – I've already raised five teenagers!"

The Banbury show is Hiya and Higher, in which lovely Barbara encourages us to be friendly, stand proud and look the world right in the eye.

Expect a friendly, inclusive atmosphere with plenty of home truths, great timing and unique comic insights into the human condition. Mrs Nice was described by The Times as a hybrid between Victoria Wood and Mrs Merton while The Stage preferred a mix of Victoria Wood and Janis Joplin.

She has recently supported Johnny Vegas and Peter Kay and has grown hugely in popularity with many TV and radio appearances, from Coronation Street to Doctors and from The Mark Radcliffe Show to children's story-telling.

She has done panto with Lily Savage and is a veteran of comedy festivals all over the UK. And she has taken her act to Europe and as far as Dubai.

The Scotsman describes her as 'as hilarious as it's possible to get' and Banbury is proud to see her 'before she goes stratospheric'!

■ Hiya and Higher is on at the Mill Arts Centre, Spice Park, Banbury, at 7.30pm. Tickets cost £12 (£10 concs). Call 01295 279002.

Great music at 'Poshstock'

WITH its rolling green acres on the edge of the Cotswolds, well-behaved crowd, steady stream of celebrities and constant sound of popping Champagne corks, it's no wonder the Cornbury Festival has a reputation for being posh.

And while 'Poshstock', now in its ninth year, has clung on to its rarefied air as a top-class weekend in the country, it has also proved itself as a premier music festival – with possibly the most eclectic line-up you'll see all summer.

Elvis Costello, James Morrison, Seasick Steve, Pixie Lott, Jools Holland, Will Young and Hugh Laurie are among the acts heading to Great Tew Park, near Chipping Norton, for Oxfordshire's first big festival of the season, which gets under way tomorrow. Also playing the three-day event are Irish country-rockers Waterboys, Essex songstress Alison Moyet, country-rockers Danny & The Champions of the World, singer-songwriters Newton

Faulkner, Tom Baxter, Marc Almond and Nerina Pallot, Norwegian instrumentalists Katzenjammer, and singer Macy Gray – who will be making her first UK festival appearance.

With a capacity of 30,000 people, and three stages among the woods at Great Tew, Cornbury has both moved on from its origins at nearby Cornbury Park, but also stuck to its ethos of good, clean fun.

And still at the helm is festival director Hugh Phillimore.

Hugh admits he initially bridled at the festival's now ubiquitous nickname, but now embraces it as a sign that he must be doing something right.

"Poshstock!" he laughs. "I didn't like it at first, but if posh means clean, tidy, well-organised and safe, well fine. I can live with that."

"It's a unique festival with a great vibe," he says. "It's a country fair with a rock 'n' roll twist; a farmers' market with a dancefloor; a village fete with some bands."

And what bands! As well as the big names, the lower echelons of the bill are a music-lovers' dream, boasting names like Eli Paperboy Read, Juan Zelada, 9 Below Zero, Beth Hart, and Gretchen Peters.

Even the 'voice of an angel' choirgirl-turned rocker Charlotte Church will be putting in an appearance as a special guest, along with Steve Winwood, who plays with Stax Soul.

"The bill is one of our strongest yet," says Hugh. "You have to think really hard about what people want, and we think we've got it right."

"Last year, for the first time, I actually watched quite a lot of it, and really enjoyed it. Perhaps that's because I wasn't running every tiny bit of it. And I plan to do the same this year."

■ The Cornbury Festival starts tomorrow and runs through to Sunday at Great Tew Park. Go to cornburyfestival.com for tickets and more information.

This alien invasion's fun but predictable

STORAGE 24 (15, 87 minutes) Sci-Fi/Horror/Thriller/Action/Comedy/Romance. Noel Clarke, Antonia Campbell-Hughes, Laura Haddock, Colin O'Donoghue, Jamie Thadock, King, Alex Price, Ned Dennehy, Geoff Bell, Amy Pemberton. Director: Johannes Roberts.

THE good old days when E.T. simply wanted to phone home are long gone.

Now, if aliens descend on Earth, they don't want to sit contentedly in the basket of a child's bicycle. They want to annihilate and conquer.

A 24-hour storage facility in south London is the epicentre of the destruction in Johannes Roberts's gore-splattered sci-fi horror.

The building's labyrinthine corridors and snaking air ducts provide a suitably claustrophobic setting for the battle royale between a hideous extra-terrestrial predator and a motley crew of ill-equipped human prey.

Characters are slain in grisly close-up at regular intervals to satisfy gore hounds, while the script plays the usual mind games to bring an unlikely saviour to the fore at the crucial moment with a stirring declaration: "I got nothing to lose so I'm going to go and kill that thing!"

The film opens with a suspected airplane crash in the capital, which causes widespread destruction.

Metal crates are strewn among the debris, with nothing inside apart from a gooey residue slathered over the interior.

Nearby, wise-cracking Charlie (Noel Clarke) and his best friend Mark (Colin O'Donoghue) arrive at a storage facility to collect some of

Shining some light on the issue Noel Clarke as Charlie, and Laura Haddock as Nikki in Storage 24

Charlie's belongings. A malfunctioning security system traps the men inside the building with employee Jake (Alex Price) and electrician Bob (Geoff Bell), who attempt to reboot the mainframe and open the metal shutters.

Meanwhile, Charlie and Mark head for a locker where they run into Charlie's embittered ex-girlfriend Shelley and her friends.

The former lovers trade barbs and then a growl reverberates through the building.

"Maybe it's the air settling in the pipes...or something" wonders Charlie.

Based on an original screenplay by leading man Clarke, Storage 24 is solid, entertaining but unremarkable genre fare, littered with undernourished characters and predictable twists.

The set-up is familiar, right down to the opening scenes of a nameless dog walker who follows her pet into a gloomy warehouse where something nasty lurks.

Clarke quips through the madness while his co-stars treat their predicament with utmost seriousness.

Slick make-up effects and a couple of fizzing one-liners compensate for a paucity of edge-of-seat scares.

Win tickets

JUST so you feel like you really are at the movies, the Banbury Cake and Odeon Cinema Banbury have teamed up to offer you the chance to catch up on the latest action blockbusters, sci-fi epics and family favourites.

Yes, every week in the Banbury Cake we'll be offering free tickets to go and see some of the silver screen's must-see movies.

And this week, we're offering a pair of tickets to see Storage 24 or any other film, showing at the Odeon cinema in Horse Fair.

To stand a chance of winning, correctly answer the following question:

■ What is the name of the character played by Noel Clarke, pictured, in Storage 24?

- a. Billy?
- b. Charlie?
- c. Harry?

Two-game ban for powerful batsman for arguing with umpire over LBW

Haupt suspended for derby dissent

OXFORDSHIRE batsman Craig Haupt missed Banbury's defeat at Welwyn Garden City in Division 1 on Saturday after picking up a two-game ban for dissent.

The powerful left-hander received the punishment following an argument with umpire Kevin Beaumont after the drawn derby game at home to Oxford the previous Saturday.

Haupt remonstrated with the official about his LBW decision, and although acting skipper Jimmy Phillips said the player subsequently apologised, he was reported to the league and has been suspended.

Phillips said: "Derby matches can bring out the best and worst in people, and they normally bring out the best in Craig.

"If you look at his record against Oxford it is exceptional, but he knows what he did against Oxford on Saturday was wrong.

"We accept that Craig knows he was in the wrong and it is just one of those things. He apologises and now he has got to take his punishment, which he accepts.

"Craig and Kevin have known each other for years. It is not a personal issue, it was just related to things on the field. "Craig went in and apologised and the pair had a beer afterwards, but he had obviously pushed it too far."

Anish Desai came into the side for Haupt, who also misses next week's trip to Harpenden.

Banbury go to 4th after defeat

BANBURY suffered a four-wicket defeat at Welwyn Garden City, dropping them to fourth in the Serious Cricket Home Counties Premier League first division.

Banbury struggled with the bat and were bowled out for 183 in the 60th over.

That score was due largely to a 107-run seventh-wicket partnership between Ashley Blanchard. They saved their side after a top-order collapse saw them in trouble at 40-6.

However, the score never looked enough as the hosts passed their target in the 49th over.

Cottage boasts period features

By Andrew Smith

AN ORIGINAL spiral staircase and inglenook fireplace are among the period features of Michaelmas Cottage in Bloxham.

Built out of local stone, the mid-terrace 18th century cottage also has original wooden flooring and exposed timbers.

Owner Claire Thompson, who runs public relations agency Syncro PR in Cassington, spent £11,000 transforming it into a contemporary, open-plan style home.

The property, which is within a conservation area, includes a sitting room with solid fuel burner and a kitchen/breakfast room with French doors to the patio.

From upstairs there are views over the 200ft 14th century church spire and there is one bedroom with ceiling beams and exposed floorboards.

There is also a bathroom upstairs.

At the back of the cottage is a walled south-facing patio garden with shed.

Ms Thompson, who shares the cottage with fiancé Simon Verbeeten, said: "When I bought the place 11 years ago it was in pretty rough shape.

"I installed central heating and laid the stone patio in the garden and various other improvements.

"As a couple who commute to London and Oxford, this has been a perfect home for us with the wonderful benefits of being located at the heart of the village.

"We will be very sad to leave."

Michaelmas Cottage is on the market with a guide price of £175,000. For more details or to arrange a viewing, contact agents Strutt and Parker on 01295 672092 or visit.struttandparker.com

HOW DETAILED DOES MY PROPERTY INVENTORY NEED TO BE?

Maria Lucas, Managing Director of Let Lucas Rental Specialists said 'disputes are decided at the beginning of a tenancy not the end'. The key documents for handling or preventing any disputes over damages, missing items or cleanliness is the Inventory and Schedule of Condition, supported by the check-in process and at the end of the tenancy a check-out.

The more detailed the inventory is at the start and taking the time to check the tenant in, the less ambiguity at the end of the tenancy and the more likely a settlement is made quickly.

We focus on 'condition, condition, condition'. The person carrying out this critical process should detail the property room by room ensuring the inventory not only covers a comprehensive contents list but also registers the quality of all contents, décor, fixtures and fittings, both internally and externally. Every item needs to be registered and its quality stated in a clear and concise way noting all marks, stains, scuffs, scrapes, dis-colouration, etc.

At the end of the tenancy, the landlord or property manager needs to determine liability for damages or cleanliness and this is based on the condition subject to fair wear and tear. If it is not clear, a decision becomes tricky. The deposit schemes adjudication (ADR), the dispute service that determines liability over disputes between landlords and tenants, are very clear. The more detailed the report, the higher the chance of a more accurate decision. Many landlords and agents fall down here by not preparing detailed reports.

Other key requirements for the report are:

- The inventory clerk must detail all Fire & Furnishing Regulation Labels attached to upholstered furniture
- Digital photographs which the tenant signs & dates
- Disclaimers and explanation notes to tenants
- Declaration page, signed
- Provide as much information as possible regarding brands and the quality.

Finally, don't think that inventory is only for a furnished property or a high value rent – most disputes are caused by cleanliness related issues, left rubbish and damage to fixtures and fittings related to standard unfurnished buy to let properties. Don't get fooled into thinking you don't need the protection of a detailed inventory– it will save you hundreds of pounds in reduced voids, time and will help keep your property in better overall condition.

With more than 50 Acts of Parliament and 70 sets of regulations which landlords should be aware of, letting is a complex, specialist field. Contact Maria Lucas, Managing Director of Let Lucas Rental Specialists on 01295 234717 for a consultation with a qualified, licensed letting expert.

JOBS

Bank Assistant opportunities, Oxford

With M&S Bank, we're creating something truly special.

M&S Bank will be unquestionably M&S. We've learnt a lot about fairness, integrity and personal service during the last 127 years as one of the UK's favourite retailers. We may be new but we're built on the foundations of M&S Money and we're in partnership with one of the world's most trusted financial institutions, HSBC. With 50 branches opening over the next two years, we're at the start of a very exciting journey. And by joining the team at the very beginning, you could be part of it all.

As a Bank Assistant, from greeting customers to providing solutions or selling our outstanding products, you'll aim to delight every customer, every time. Experience of dealing with customers and selling products, ideally gained in a retail bank setting or a retail role, is vital. Aveo ticks boxes for fun on move

By David Duffy

LET'S quickly run through this hatchback's tick-list — electric windows, air conditioning, remote locking and cruise control with speed limiter. So that will be the top-of-the-range model specification then?

No, that's what you get on the basic version. So whatever else, Chevrolet's five-door Aveo is extremely well equipped.

And as well as high specification, the Aveo also delivers in terms of handling, with a surprisingly engaging drive on the open road for a small car that looks like it would be most at home in the city.

The car's lively feel is backed up by electric power-steering and an electronic stability control system, which is fitted to all models.

There is also a decent range of engines. The test car used the 1.2-litre, 86 horsepower engine which sits perfectly in the car delivering excellent economy and enough zip to make the car fun. Other engine choices include a livelier 100 horsepower 1.4-litre petrol, which comes with the option of a six-speed automatic transmission and a 1.3-litre turbocharged diesel, available in two power outputs.

Engine and wind noise are well suppressed, but the downside on the move is the level of road noise, which unsurprisingly becomes most intrusive at higher speeds. If you can put up with the road rush, the Aveo is a properly practical little car with two gloveboxes, various compartments and door pockets, three cupholders and a decent boot, combined with 60:40 folding rear seat.

Safety is also catered for with anti-lock braking and brake assist, along with six airbags as standard.

The Aveo looks good too. At the front sits a large twin grille with centrally positioned badge and exposed, twin-tube, motorcycle-inspired headlamps, with high-gloss black bezels and chrome rings. As with the Chevrolet Spark, the rear door pull handles sit in the upper section of the door.

The interior, albeit a bit plasticky, is also nicely styled, with a distinctive dual-cockpit apparently derived from the Chevrolet Corvette and an blue backlit instrument cluster that reflects the motorcycle theme on the exterior with a round speedometer and digital LCD readout.

WELL EQUIPPED: The Aveo's standard equipment list includes air conditioning, electrically-operated windows and cruise control

Prices start at about £10,000 for the 1.2 LS model, and as mentioned earlier, even in basic trim the Aveo comes with air-conditioning, cruise control, remote locking, a rear spoiler, CD-stereo radio, electrically-adjustable heated door mirrors and electric front windows.

The mid-range test LT model adds extras like a four-way adjustable driver's seat, driver information centre and Bluetooth phone compatibility.

Festival of speed

F1 drivers line up for celebration of speed

THE Goodwood Festival of Speed offers a completely different experience to the standard static motor show.

Taking place between tomorrow and Sunday, July 1, this year, the festival takes place in the grounds of Goodwood House, near Chichester.

Lord March, owner of Goodwood House and the nearby Goodwood racing circuit, first hosted the Festival of Speed back in 1993, but since then it has grown and grown to incorporate more displays, action and events.

Arguably the chief attraction is the hillclimb, a timed run that goes right past Goodwood House, the substantial spectator stands and up into the grounds.

You can expect to see historic racers that might not turn a wheel all year, alongside the cutting edge of modern motorsport machines from Formula 1 and the World Rally Championship to name a few, and the most recent high-performance road cars from around the world — several of which will be making their public debut.

What's more, there is a seemingly never-ending queue of famous drivers willing to get behind the wheel. This year you can expect to see Sebastian Vettel, Lewis Hamilton, Jenson Button, Mark Webber, Derek Bell, Sir Stirling Moss, Alain Prost and Sir Jackie Stewart among those blasting up the hill.

And from the world of F1 you can expect Red Bull Racing, Scuderia Ferrari, Vodafone McLaren Racing, Enstone's Lotus, Brackley's Mercedes GP, Williams, of Grove, and Leaffield's Caterham in force.

There is also the rally stage and plenty of action for motorcycle fans. See www.goodwood.co.uk/festival-of-speed/welcome.aspx

- VOLKSWAGEN'S Up! city car is available to order in five-door form, at £365 more than the equivalent three-door model. The five-door up! has the same virtues as its three-door sibling: a 2.42m long wheelbase giving good interior space despite a compact 3.54m overall vehicle length, a capacious 251-litre boot, an efficient three-cylinder engine, new-to-the-class safety features and an innovative infotainment system. A fully electric version will join the range in late 2013, and an automated manual gearbox will become optional later in 2012. Prices start at £8,360.

- MAZDA and Fiat are working together on developing and manufacturing a two-seater convertible, although the two firms will come up with different, distinctly-styled models. The Japanese and Italian firms have confirmed that they have signed an agreement. They said their co-operation for Fiat's Alfa Romeo model and the Mazda would be based on Mazda's "next-generation MX-5 rear-wheel-drive architecture".
